

Theater

Theater at Northeast Community College is an exciting participation activity. In addition to theater classes, through a cooperative agreement with the Norfolk Community Theater and the production of an all-college play, students participate in a wide variety of experiences in the production of theater. After earning an associate of arts degree in two years, students may either put their skills directly to work or transfer into a bachelor's degree program at a four-year college. Career opportunities in theater may be found in performing arts, directing, writing, set design and other areas behind the scenes, movies and television, education, and business.
